

THE INTERNATIONAL SCHOOL OF CONFLICT MANAGEMENT & DIPLOMATIC STUDIES

Shaping Leaders | Advancing Global Diplomacy | Driving International Trade

WHO WE ARE

ISCMDS is an emerging world-class institution with a presence in Nigeria and Canada. Dedicated to shaping the complexity of global diplomatic affairs, regional peace, and security. Working to balance leadership skills for policies that promote global trade and intergovernmental relations. Preparing students as future leaders with the requisite knowledge in the field of international relations for world stage roles through training, research, and advisory services.

We also offer tailored training on administrative diplomacy to Institutions and stakeholders for human capital development. Our faculty and advisory team consists of a pool of the finest academic and professional expertise. The costs of our training and advisory services are competitively fair.

WHAT IS CONFLICT MANAGEMENT?

Conflict Management is the field that focuses on understanding, preventing, and resolving disputes between individuals, organizations, communities, and nations. It combines elements of negotiation, mediation, law, psychology, and peace building. The goal is not only to stop conflict, but to transform it into opportunities for cooperation and progress.

DIPLOMATIC STUDIES

Diplomatic Studies examines the theory and practice of diplomacy — how states, governments, and organizations communicate and negotiate on the global stage. It covers areas like international law, global governance, foreign policy, trade relations, and cultural diplomacy.

WHY IT MATTERS TODAY

- Globalization has created interdependent economies that require negotiation and trust.
- Political conflicts, trade wars, and security crises demand skilled mediators and diplomats.
- Corporations expanding into new regions need advisors who understand law, policy, and culture.
- Institutions like the UN/UNCTAD, WTO, and regional trade blocs rely on trained professionals in this field.

INTERNATIONAL TRADE AND DEVELOPMENT

WHAT ARE THE BENEFITS OF INT'L TRADE FOR AN ENTREPRENEUR?

Wide potential customer database, increased profits and revenue, less competition possibility, diversification, and exchange rates.

WHO IS AN INT'L TRADE ADVISOR?

An International Trade and Development Advisor, also known as an International Trade Specialist, delivers technical expertise and guidance to businesses and organizations navigating the complexities of international trade, promoting their growth and, in turn, fostering a robust domestic economy through business funds repatriated to the home Country.

WHY BUSINESSES NEED AN INT'L TRADE ADVISOR? An Advisor will:

- Research and analyze global market trends, and provide a report for the client's business, for regional smooth navigation.
- Advise on Customs, Export regulations, and Compliance to avoid entrepreneurial pitfalls and consequential costs.
- Advise on the development and implementation of international business strategies.
- Identifies global business opportunities in the area of interest and provides recommendations.
- Assistance in maintaining knowledge of current int'l trade laws, tariffs, international arbitration clauses, and regulations.
- Facilitate communication between businesses and foreign indigenous entities to maximize profitable synergies for business growth
- Assist in the amicable resolution of any trade disputes between businesses.

Whether your business is a Canadian Corporation looking to grow and expand its operations outside Canada, to Asia, Europe, South America, Australia, and Africa, or a foreign corporation, contemplating how to navigate the Canadian geographical region of North America, for expansion and growth, ISCMDS advisory has the expertise needed for your corporation to launch a profitable trade abroad. We look forward to taking your brief for the expert details on a case-by-case basis.
